Francis Johnston, Reg. Gen.
The petition of Thomas Stewardson on behalf of himself and the other trustees for the estate of Samuel Caldwell, surviving partner of James Meese, bearing date Philadelphia, 5th Month 17th 1799, stated as follows, viz. That a certain John Collins had in consequence of fraudulent deeds poll, obtained patents for two certain tracts of land, one situate in the county of Northumberland, surveyed to Samuel Caldwell in pursuance of a warrant dated in 1774; and the other situate now in Luzerne county, surveyed to said Caldwell by a warrant also dated in 1774—and requested that patents might be granted, for the said tracts, to William Crammond, Edward Tilghman, John Ashley, and Thomas Stewardson, trustees of the estate of Samuel Caldwell, surviving partner of James Meese, as the said two tracts were part of the estate of Meese and Caldwell.
Whereupon the Board having considered the same, ordered that at least sixty days notice be given in one of the Philadelphia newspapers, and in the Lancaster Journal to the said Collins or his assigns, to appear before the Board on the first Monday in October next, to shew cause if any he or they have, why patents should not issue for the said two tracts to the said trustees agreeably to the prayer of the said petition.

TREASURY DEPARTMENT
JUNE 27, 1798.
NOTICE IS HEREBY GIVEN, That by virtue of an act, passed during the present session of Congress, so much of the act entituled "An Act making further provision for the support of public credit, and for the redemption of the public debt"—passed the third day of March, one thousand seven hundred and ninety-five, as bars from settlement or allowance, Certificates, commonly called Loan Office and final settlement Certificates, and Indents of Interests, is suspended until the twelfth day of June, which will be in the year one thousand seven hundred and ninety nine.
That on the liquidation and settlement of the said Certificates, and Indents of Interest, at the Treasury, the Creditors will be entitled to receive Certificates of funded Three Per Cent. Stock equal to the amount of the said Indents, and the arrearages of interest due on their said Certificates, prior to the first day of January one thousand seven hundred and ninety one.
That the principal sums of the said Loan Office and final settlement Certificates, with the interest thereon, since the first day of January, one thousand seven hundred and ninety one, will be discharged after liquidation at the Treasury, by the payment of interest and reimbursement of principal, equal to the sums which would have been payable thereon, if the said Certificates had been subscribed, pursuant to the Acts making provision for the debts of the United States, contracted during the late war, and by the payment of other sums, equal to the market value of the remaining Stock, which would have been created by such subscriptions as aforesaid, which market value will be determined by the Comptroller of the Treasury.

The Gazette.

PHILADELPHIA,

SATURDAY EVENING, AUGUST 3.

No. X.

To the Managers of the Alms House and House of Employ.

GENTLEMEN,

BY your account last year, the number of Paupers received into the Alms House was 7266; that is 605 on the average of a month—a number far exceeding any former period, even the years 1793 and 1797, when the yellow fever prevailed.

To one of the causes of this incredible increase, I wish in a particular manner to call your attention, as it is inexpedient, and in the opinion of many very oppressive. I mean your determination to grant to the poor, no more pensions in their private habitations. By these means you force them from cruel necessity upon the public for entire support, when a much smaller gratuity than the sum which they cost you in the House, would render their condition more comfortable and considerably lessen the public burthen. There are other causes for this excess; I allude to all the apprentices that go to the Alms House to be bound to their trades and return from thence without breaking of bread. The Paupers sent by the Guardians to the Hospital are likewise included, although they are no expence to you but for cloathing and funeral charges: and it is well known that considerable numbers pass in and out 6 or 7 times in a year, who are always entered and count as distinct persons; all these contribute to swell your deceptive list, and create a false divisor that dwindles down the cost of a Pauper to a dollar a week, at the very time it is likely to be nearer two than one. But if I must allow that you have 605 in the House, I will tell you plainly that it is a measure of cruelty, unless I attribute your conduct to a want of judgment, which I am very willing to do; but I have no allowance to make for your Physicians. The owner of a Liverpool slave ship may as well boast of humanity, as they, when he weighs out air, with exactness by the ton, to a miserable crew, that are panting for breath. Is the poverty of our fellow citizens a crime, that should condemn them to be smothered in such a wretched place? Wretched do I say; yes miserably wretched: for your doctors know very well, that in your House you can never accommodate such a number of people in this climate; they also know, it is impossible for them to fulfil their own public and private engagements, and give at the same time good attendance to so many sick people. It would be a wicked undertaking, the very idea of which implies a degree of suffering at which humanity shudders, and which I charitably hope and believe they would never be the authors of inflicting. Your Physicians must therefore deny the presumptious assertion of Semper ego, their Quixotical champion, in respect to the amount of Hospital cases, or submit to the charge of inhumanity and cruelty in their mode of practice. There is no other alternative.

A few words more will close this number. The whole tenor and spirit of the poor laws, that are made for the government of your Corporation, admit only of two ideas, viz. an Alms House and House of Employ, and although the former may partake in a very small degree of the nature of a Hospital, yet I deny the propriety of making it so, beyond what imperious necessity demands; more especially as it tends to ruin all manufacturies, in the House, which forms a leading and principal feature in the laws. Will you not then make a momentary pause, and seriously consider what may be the consequence of raising yourselves, paramount to legislative acts that are made to limit your proceedings, before you lift the arm of your mighty power, against the Alms House and House of Employ. If however to gratify your own vanity, if to humour the whim and caprice of projecting physicians, or if from any other improper considerations you rashly determine to pursue your ridiculous scheme, of grafting a public hospital on that institution, the least you can do will be to relieve our well grounded anxiety for the lives of our fellow citizens entrusted to your care, by reducing your complex operations, to a more consistent system; for you now exhibit the only example I know, of a Hospital, in which only four Physicians, who attend their private practice, and some of them in other public institutions have the care of a Hospital that contains 261 patients on an average, of whose admissions, diseases,* cures, reliefs, elopements or death, no account is given.

* Diseased cases subjects only for a Hospital. are proper for your list: drowsiness acquired by sturdy beggars who spend their time poring over poppies in flower gardens, instead of picking oakum, ought not to be reckoned.

Murder of Bonnier and Roberjot.

IT is an ill wind that blows nobody good; and if the Directory themselves were not the contrivers of the murder, (no offence I hope to revolutionary humanity) it was certainly a most lucky event for them. The national enthusiasm was gone, and no stimulus remained for the preservation of the Republique. Philanthropy exhausted by its millions of murders—the guillotine thrown by like a coat cut of fashon—Sanculotism no longer presenting an image of glory—the ear of the nation grown weary of music, and Gasconade done over with the army of England, what resource was left for the salvation of the tyrants? They still indeed drew a hope from the Hero of Egypt; and it must be confessed, he did his best to keep them from despair. Camels and Caravans, Mamelukes and Arabs, Alexandria, Rosetta, Cairo, Pompey's Pillar and the Pyramids, dance through his letters in all the mazes of jacobinic confusion, affording a most delicious regale to the frivolity of Frenchmen. But their frivolity, like their stomachs, requires vanity, and with the capriciousness of an infant, cries for new rattles. They now look for conquests and trophies, and the national vanity can no longer be flattered by unimportant, and often unsuccessful frays with a handful of Arabs.

But what can be done by the Directory and Councils? A most terrible coalition acting against them, without a friend in the world, and scarcely a dupe left for cajolery! They try the old cant—but in vain. They shake their robes—but it will not do. Peste! Austria, England, Turkey and Russia come thundering upon them They fight, but are every where beaten. They trump up the worn-out tale of an expiring soldier crying "Vive la Republique;" but their warriors, it now seems, like the notion of living themseves. Le Diable! What shall they do now? When lo! the virtuous Jean De Brie, the philanthropist who had proposed a Legion of 1200 assassins to murder the monarchs and aristocrats of Europe, sends them a whining detail of the assassination of his concitoyens. Instantly, asif blood and murder were as rare to a jacobin as rain to an Egyptian, they vote it the most horrible outrage that ever was perpetrated, and decree a funeral fete to the manes of the butchered innocents. Heaven and earth are invoked to avenge the deed, and the national energy developed amidst the reiterated cries of Vengeance! Vengeance! Vive la Republique! Ah! Oh!

MR. FENNO,

Among the numerous labourers in the field of republicanism, who, with a disinterestedness, peculiar to exclusive patriots, have generously stept forward to eradicate the weeds and the thistles of priesthood and aristocracy that have started up so plentifully of late, none surely labor with greater energy, or are entitled to a more splendid reward than the six pure and spotless republicans who have appeared as the humble champions of democracy in our happy state. To be sure, sir, it appears rather a departure from their usual consistency, that they have ventured to instruct the Sovereign people in the choice of a Servant. But, perhaps they deem (and no doubt justly) that the people are not quite as sovereign in good sense and penetration as they are in power. This idea may or may not be erroneous. At any rate, we would not be so uncandid as to notice with an improper view their trifling errors, while their virtuous and patriotic acts, as individuals, stand on records that we pray to God may be preserved with greater care, than the late public records of Georgia.

As one of those Sovereign People, whose footsteps have been guided through the dreary paths of superstition and aristocracy, to the land of liberty by the lamp of republicanism in the hands of those worthy six, I should evince a deficiency in the most exalted and most common attribute of popular sovereignty, gratitude, were I not to exert my talents in proposing a reward for our guides. I am not puzzled in fixing on the best method of rewarding.—We all know their aversion to a pecuniary compensation; this savours of the features of a bribe; and we have been told often enough of the detestation in which they hold the principles of secret service money—Well, sir, it shall be a post of honor; there is but little doubt of their filling an honorable station well; well, be it so; in this arrangement I would wish to consult not only the talents of each for the station which he is to dignify, but their dispositions and their former practice; the ex-commissioner is certainly entitled to priority of notice on every ground.

Some twenty years since, we were honored with the visit of a number of foreigners from a certain European island; they arrived here well provided with the necessaries and conveniences of life, but unfortunately, in a short time they became embarrassed in their circumstances, and stood in need of a guide to conduct them through our dreary woods and marshes to a place of security. At this moment our patriot stept forward; his bosom glowed with every humane and patriotic sentiment, and became to this wandering tribe a second Moses. Now, as such has been the humanity of his practice, as we can possess no doubt of the purity of his intentions, at that time, and as from appearances we may expect another crowd of foreigners from another foreign country shortly, I would humbly propose that the state of Pennsylvania should affix a competent salary to the office of "President of the Emigration Society," and that this office should be offered to our worthy patriot. I would apologise for offering a station so humble as this to a man who deserves one so much more exalted, were he not a republican!

The next on our list is a Physician who has been equally successful in curing the disorders of the body politic, as those of the natural; or at least understands them equally; I feel myself at a loss to fix on a station that could possibly do honor to this man. I know indeed, of several offices that have been established for the purpose of issuing certificates, but as I must confine myself to the rule I have laid down, of consulting the practice and the inclinations of these worthy citizens, as well as their talents, I would not offer a post of this description to this patriot, but wait in expectation that the government, for his accommodation will erect one for the sole purpose of receiving certificates.

As to the Secretary, who appears next on the list, I will say nothing. A writer of good authority, a republican, has told us, that he has already his price, and if he will deign to mention to the sovereign people that price, it will certainly be paid him without any inquiry as to the mode by which it has been calculated.

I will, probably, sir, take notice of the remainder of these worthy citizens at another time; but in order to accommodate the offices they are to occupy to their former practice and dispositions, I fancy we will be obliged to coin new ones, as well as the money to support them.

One of the sovereign people.

After the ministers of the empire quitted Rastadt, they went to Carlsruhe, and before quitting that place they held a long and serious conference, in which detailed species facti were drawn up respecting the tragic scenes of the French ministers near Rastadt. This paper, together with all the annexed documents, were carried, in the name of the Margrave of Baden, as reigning Prince of the territory where it happened, to his royal highness the Archduke Charles. We hope soon to be enabled to give this official account to our readers, which will terminate a number of vague conjectures formed on this event. [French Paper.]

Charleston, July 25

Extract from the log book of the schooner Margaret, from Nassau.

"Monday July 15, at 4 P. M. was brought too by a Spanish brig, which at a distance shewed English colours, but drawing close to us, and finding us to be a merchantman, hauled down the English and hoisted Spanish colours; ordered us to hoist out our boat, but finding us a long time about it, sent their own on board, ordered our colours to be immediately struck, and sent the captain and all hands, excepting the mate, on board the brig, leaving two officers and four men on board our schooner; after which they fell too breaking open our chests trunks and lockers. and plundering us of whatever they pleased, taking our papers and letters from us, together with nineteen hundred dollars the property of Mr. John Teasdals, and Kirk and Liskens, merchant, of Charleston; they then manned the schooner with five men and a prize master, and sealed up the papers, with an intention of taking her to some port; but after keeping us in possession four hours, they consulted with each other, and finding our foremast to be nearly gone, they took from us our quadrants, books and boat and a quantity of fruit and turtle, presents sent to gentlemen in Charleston, together with the chief of our wearing apparel, telling the captain he might go on board with his people and proceed on his voyge, with many hearty curses for the little plunder they obtained,—at 9. P. M. made sail to our first destined port.

By this Day's Mail.

BOSTON, July 30.

From the MEDITERRANEAN.

Capt. T. Clement came passenger in the Sylvania, arrived in the outer harbor; and has made to us the subsequent communication.

The Sylvania, sailed from Alicant, the 8th of May; at which time 4 Spanish frigates were ready to sail with troops for Majorca; other troops were expected shortly to be sent from Alicant to the same place; and from the preparations, it was supposed an attack would be made from that Island upon Mahon.—Persons from Minorca, as late as the 27th April, say, there were from 12 to 14 ships of the line and frigates constantly in and about the Island, that there were nearly 4000 effective troops at Mahon in high spirits. Since the capture of the Island they had perfectly repaired the famous Castle of St. Phillips, which is now bomb proof, and contains 18 months provisions for the garrison. Many additional forts and batteries have been erected by the British troops for the greater strength of the Island, and it is now in a much better state of defence than when they took it from the Spanish. Salt provisions are remarkably plenty, and wine and brandy they are abundantly supplied with from the great number of prizes made by the privateers on the coast of Catalonia. A Portuguese Convoy had arrived with sugar and coffee, and furnished a large supply of those articles to the inhabitants, who, it seems, are very favorably disposed towards their old masters, the English.

On the 19th of May, a little to the Eastward of Oran, on the Coast of Barbary, and shortly after having experienced a very heavy gale of wind, which continued 24 hours, we fell in with a Spanish fleet of men of war, some of which were entirely dismasted and others much damaged. A brig belonging to the fleet boarded us, and enquired for the French fleet. They said they were 5 days from Cadiz, and were then steering for Carthagena, in consequence of damages they had suffered in the gale.

On the 25th we fell in with an English frigate bound into Gibralter, having lost her mainmast in the gale.

We arrived at and left Gibralter the 16th of May Ld. St. Vincent's had been gone 15 days, with 16 ships of the line under his command, in quest of the French and Spanish fleet which passed up the Streights May 5; which fleet consisted of 17 French and 3 Spanish ships of the line. By advice received at Gibralter from Lord St. Vincent's he was only 50 miles distant from them; having fortunately obtained information from a Danish vessel, that had been boarded from the French fleet before he fell in with her—they were laying too off the Island of Ivaca, waiting for the Spanish fleet from Cadiz.

Ld. St. Vincents had previously been joined by three ships of the line from Mahon, and obtained the information crowded sail to come up with the French fleet before they could form their intended junction.

The gale of wind, which proved so disastrous to the Cadiz fleet, must also have had an effect upon the French fleet off Ivica, and probably have not facilitated the English Admiral's design upon them.

Five ships of the line and two frigates from England, came to Gibralter 18th May, and proceeded immediately to join Ld. St. Vincents. They will, however, not be able to come up with him, before he must have engaged the French fleet; But I presume, from the firing we heard the 20th and 21st, they might have fallen in with a part of the Spanish fleet, standing over for Carthagena, were they were to repair the damages done by the gale.

NEW-YORK, August 2.

Last week the citizens in the vicinity of Cœntics slip, were alarmed by the appearance of a disease resembling in its symptoms the Fever of 1798. The number of cases was small, probably not exceeding eight at most, of which five terminated fatally. We are happy to remark, that it now appears to have subsided entirely. On enquiring in that neighbourhood yesterday, we could not learn that a single new case had occured this week, and that two persons are still indisposed, though far advanced in convalescence.

Two opinions are entertained of its origin. Some ascribe it to the ship Gen. Wayne, from Havanna—others to local causes. Though the truth may not, perhaps, be accurately known, 'tis said by some that if it be now extinct, and do not appear again, it will not be easy to establish that it arose from causes existing on the spot.

We thought it necessary to make this brief statement, after particular enquiry of Physicians and others, more especially for the information of our distant readers, who have no doubt been imposed on as usual by the most exaggerated rumours; an idea is rendered the more probable, from the contradictory and unfounded reports which we know have been circulated even in town.

The sloop which we mentioned in yesterday's paper, to have been on fire to the southward of Staten Island, proves to be the Betsey, capt. Pritchard of St. Thomas, owned there by the house of Messrs. Fogarty and Co. She sailed from hence on Tuesday morning, and was discovered to be on fire under the cabbouse about 1 o'clock P. M. Every exertion was made to get it under; but before it was discovered, it had made too much proogress—they then run her a ground, and she burned to the water's edge.—During the time she was on fire, several sloops passed her, but none of them would render the people any assistance to save the property; except one, which anchored as near as she could with safety after she went aground. The cargo consisted of lumber, tea, and dry goods; a very small part of which were saved—The vessel and cargo were valued at about 10,000 dollars.

Dr. Crome, in his Statistic Journal, lately published in Germany, gives the following as the probable amount of the losses in men and money of the belligerent powers, sustained in the present horrible war, from 1792 to the end of 1796:

	Guilders.	Men.
Austria,	300,000,000	280,000
Germ. Emp. and Russia,	140,000,000	100,000
England,	800,000,000	150,000
Holland from '93 to '95	152,000,000	30,000
Spain,	480,000,000	100 000
Portugal,	40,000 000
Naples,	40,000,000	20,000
The Pope,	10,000,000
Sardinia,	38,000,000	50,000
France,	2,802,500 000	1,000,000
Total,	4,802,500,000	1,730,000

Allowing each Guilder to be equal to 30 cents it will appear, that the above sum is equal to the astonishing number of one thousand eight hundred and seventy two millions nine hundred and seventy five thousand dollars, together with the destruction of one million seven hundred and thirty thousand innocent fellow creatures.

So much for the expence and blood of four years of the war!

Extract of a letter from Newport, dated July 29, 1799.

"The ship General Greene, capt. Perry, arrived here on Saturday last, from the Havanna; has lost 20 men by the yellow fever, and has 38 now sick. Among the dead is the Doctor, Purser, Steward and Carpenter."

William Duane, who has been hired for some time past, to conduct Bache's Aurora, was brought up before Judge Peters, on Friday morning, and bound, himself in 2000 dollars, and two sureties in 1000 each.

His trial is expected to come on before Judge Paterson, in October next.

There were two people who appeared as his securities—one of them, a man of the name of Barker, who distinguished himself in the attempt of Israel to get into the Senate; the other proved to be Guy Bryan, a Government Contractor.

Yesterday, in the Select Council of this City, FRANCIS GURNEY, Esq. resigned his seat as President of that body; HENRY PRATT, Esq. was elected to the office.

A letter from Surinam of the 9th ult. announces the arrival (at the mouth of the river) of the U. S. sloop of war Portsmouth, Capt. M'Neil, on the 7th, where she had taken her station for the summer. The Norfolk, and Pickering armed brigs, were daily expected there to take any vessels under convoy (for home) that might be ready. Before the arrival of the Portsmouth, Surinam was completely blockaded by the French privateers. She has, however, cleared the coast, though several captures were made a day or two before her arrival. A French 20 gun ship is now blockaded by the Portsmouth.

"Get her for me, for she pleaseth me well,"

——— was the impatient demand of an ardent and enthusiastic lover of the east.

Samson, whose amours the Preacher is now about to consider, appears to have been as much distinguished for warmth and precipitancy of passion, as for strength and vigor of body. His attachments were hasty and strong, and his resentments, bitter and implacable. This precipitancy led him into many serious difficulties, in his intercourse with the world, and, among others, involved him in the unfortunate love-intrigue, which gave birth to the words of our text.

Far be it from the Preacher to attempt to loosen, much more, to sever those bonds of affection, which connect, in sweet alliance, the hearts of his hearers; or to rend even the delusive veil of happiness, which indulgent nature has been pleased to cast over the "ills that flesh is heir to." Far be it from me to discourage those mutually pleasing emotions, which promote and sweeten the intercourse between the sexes, enliven and invigorate the noblest sentiments of the soul, and spread a delightful charm, over the afflictive occurrences of life. Suspect me not, my young hearers, of a desire to poison your minds with that stoic pride, which affects to soar "above life's weakness and its pleasures too," or to blast, with the chilling breath of forgetful old-age, those enjoyments which arise from the exercise of virtuous love. On the contrary, my duty and indination both concur, in urging me to offer my fatherly hand to lead you, along the road of reason, to the enjoyment of your desired happiness! and at the same time, to point out those devious windings of passion, in which Samson and many others have bewildered themselves, in their pursuit after conjugal felicity.

That the passion of Samson, for the young lady of Timnath, proceeded from those bewitching charms of beauty and personal accomplishments, which irresistibly seize and fascinate the hearts of volatile and inconsiderate young men, rather than from any known excellence of her mind or disposition is sufficiently evident from his own narrative and her subsequent conduct. He manifestly betrays that palpitation of the heart, that distraction of the mind, and those painfully pleasing and agitating sensations, which indicate ——— "the very extasy of love,

Whose violent property foredoes itself
And leads the will to desperate undertakings."

At his return from his tour to the land of the Philistines, with more than even the ordinary impatience of a traveller, he hastens to acquaint his parents with his discovery abroad. "I have seen," said he, "A WOMAN, in Timnath, of the daughters of the Philistines:" and with still greater earnestness adds; "now, therefore get her for me to wife." His father, disposed to make some enquiry upon the subject and to recal, to his memory, the laws and usages of his nation, replies with a mixture of irony and paternal reproof; "Is there never a WOMAN among the daughters of thy brethren, or among all my people, that thou goest to take a wife of the uncircumcised Philistines?" Samson, indignant that his father should oppose, to the progress of his enjoyment, the barriers of reason, or attempt to retard his anticipated bliss, by the suggestions of duty, deigns no direct or satisfactory reply to these expostulations, but more impatiently and peremptorily demands, in the language of the text! "Get her for me for she pleaseth me well."

———So he did: But when Samson had obtained her, his felicity, as we might expect, was "momentary as a sound." It did not last even the short period of honey-moon. Before the close of the nuptial feast, we find her planning and executing a stratagem to betray him. Do not be too hasty, young man, to reply; that she was a base and treacherous woman; that such is a rare instance, and very little to be feared among women, whose company you keep. The assertion, that she was base and treacherous, is without proof. In the eyes of Samson, she was a charming girl, possessed of all that perfection, which he artlessly, though forcibly, expressed, when he said, that he had seen a woman; or which your own fancy discovers in the object of your midnight sighs. The fault was chiefly his, and may be yours. Having merely seen her, he determined to marry her, and, without giving her, a sufficient opportunity to become acquainted with him and to persuade herself, that she also had seen a man, and the only man, whom she could wear in her "heart of hearts," he makes known to her this determination and carries it into execution. The natural consequence was, that though, from motives of prudence or policy or something else, she had consented to be his, she had not contracted that strong attachment to him which could swallow up all other considerations, and induce her to embark herself, solely, in his interest and to bear up against the stormy threats and solicitations of her countrymen and friends. Overborne by their persuasions and menaces, she consents to extort from him, a secret and betray it to them:—a secret, to be sure of no very great importance, in itself! but, in its consequences, ruinous to his felicity and dreadfully fatal to herself and family. In all this, we discover the marks of timidity, rather than of any extraordinary depravity, which should distinguish the Timnites's from the women of other countries and of later times. Nor will I consent, that her conduct be ascribed to any peculiar frikeness or inconstancy common to all women;

"For, however we do praise ourselves,
Our fancies are more giddy and unfirm,
More longing, wavering, sooner lost and won
Than women's are."

It is properly to be ascribed to a principle or a weakness of human nature and we always deceive ourselves and bring trouble upon others, when we hope to reap the fruits of strong attachment or consolidated friendship, without sowing the seed and allowing the time which are necessary for the production of such a harvest. Wild adventures, of this kind, lead persons into strong temptations to inconstancy and unfaithfulness. Likewise, by dissipating the affections and unhinging the principles of morality and good manners, they have a most unhappy influence on the minds of those who engage in them.

After a manœuvre of this kind, we might naturally enough look for any young man, where we actually find Samson,——in the chambers of a harlot. This last piece of folly, as it usually does, brought its own punishment with it by involving him in fresh broil with the Philistines. His ungovernable temper, however, incapable of being subdued by chastisements of this kind, hurried him on to a similar intrigue with Delilah, another daughter of the Philistines, in which after being wheedled and outwitted by a false and deceitful woman, he "died, as a fool dieth," in the land of his enemies and of his unlawful amours.

Thus have I, imperfectly, sketched the course and consequences of that love which arises from caprice and is indulged without discretion. "Reason, my son, should choose himself a wife:——reason, which first approves, then esteems, and afterwards, draws into its train the affections and the heart.—There is an essential difference between that love, ripened upon friendship, which grows out of a rational approbation, of a woman's character; and that fungus, mushroom passion, which is ready to spring up at the sight of a handsome face or a wanton gesture, and which poisons the soul and prevents the growth of every virtuous affection. The former is a pleasant and salutary fruit, which may be freely and safely taken, for "it bringeth no sorrow therewith;" the latter is a luscious, but, at the same time, noxious potion, which, if ever productive of lasting happiness, is still to be suspected and avoided; "for beauty is a witch," which throws a charm over every imperfection and converts the grossest faults into fascinating ingredients to inflame the draught of love. Trust not your happiness with the woman, whose graces "ride sparkling in her eye;" but with her who has them "placed about the thoughts and the counsels of the heart." See that she possess compassion, benevolence, mildness and discretion: that she be a "keeper at home" and one, who "looketh well to the ways of her household;" "for in her shall thy heart trust safely. "When thou liest down, thou shalt not be afraid; yea, thou shalt lie down, and thy sleep shall be sweet." But beware of a strange woman, and "lust not after her beauty, in thine heart; neither let her take thee with her eye-lids;" "for though, at present, she pleaseth thee well, the time may come when she will shave thy head and take away thy strength.

Health Office,

New-York, 1 Aug. 1799, 6 P. M.

THE Commissioners of Health, knowing that much alarm has been excited among the Citizens of New-York by the Death of six or eight persons in Yellow Fever; and knowing from various citizens, and particularly from Philadelphia, that our condition is believed by our neighbours to be infinitely worse than in reality it is, have judged it adviseable to inform the citizens, that no new case of Yellow Fever has been reported to them during the last forty eight hours, at which time they knew of but two suspicious cases in existance.

They have the pleasure to add, that the testimony of the Physicians in general co ours in declaring the state of health of this City to be at least as good as it ordinarily is at this season of the year.

GABRIEL FURMAN, Chairman.

On the 26th ult as Mr. Charles Stuttin, of this city was bathing at the public baths, he was unfortunately drowned The body was found the next day, and decently interred in Trinity Church burying ground.—He was a good and honest man.

Had our minister at Paris, when he was threatened with imprisonment, if he did not take himself out of France, left the city the same night with 3000 joes in his pockets there would have been vagabonds enough outside the gates to rob him, and murder him afterwards. He knew where he was and was more wise. He waited, though many weeks, till he obtained a passport.

French presumption and petulence would not suffer the deputies of the grande nation to wait at Rastadt a few hours for a passport; they set out in the night without it, and shortly after fell by the hands of ruffians, perhaps of their own nation and kidney.

(Fed. Gaz.

The directory, in other matters as well as their intrigues and negociations, have over reached themselves, Forgetting their own characters, they gave out that the frightful Suwarrow intended to give no quarter, take no prisoners. They took dare to convey, this calumny to their armies, in hopes of renovating their former frenzy and mad enthusiasm; but mark, it had the contrary effect. The idea of seeing men said to be as ferocious as themselves filled them with horor. In every onset since, they have in thousands thrown down their arms and begged. Quarter has been given them, and what now enrages the grande nation and their minions, is, that they can find no cut throat like themselves. (ib.

TERMS
Of Richard Folwell, in Philadelphia,
FOR SUBSCRIBING TO THE
JOURNALS OF CONGRESS,
FROM THE COMMENCEMENT
Of the American War, in 1774, to the present time,
INCLUDING
The Reports of Heads of Departments, of Committees, and other Official and Private Papers of that Body, now first permitted to be made public.

TERMS.

THE work will be printed on a fine paper, and a new neat type, in large octavo.

Each volume will contain above 500 pages, neatly bound and lettered.

Uniformity in size, paper, and binding, will be observed throughout the work; so that, while the subscribers become possessed of a valuable record, an ornament may be added to their libraries.

The price to subscribers will be 2 dolls. 75 cts. per volume, in boards, and 3 dolls. whole bound, but, as the publisher does not intend to print many more than the number subscribed for, a considerable rise on the price may be expected to non-subscribers.

Each volume will contain about one third less of letter-press than the original edition; but, as the publisher is not yet enabled to determine the extent of the Private Journals, which he may be allowed to make public, he cannot ascertain the number of volumes which will comprise the work.

☞ Payments to be made on delivery of each volume.

Subscribers will have it at their option, either to subscribe for the whole of the Journals, up to the present time, or to those only of the Old Congress prior to the organization of the Federal Government.

IN all countries, the proceedings in the commencement of their governments, are lost in darkness and obscurity, owing to a carelessness, in the succeeding generation, to preserve the public records, and the attention of the nation, in these rude ages, being call'd off from their domestic concerns, to engage in wars and conquest. Of what infinite value would the laws of Alfred be, had they been transmitted to our days? Time, that destroys every thing, enhances the value of well authenticated public records, and renders them almost inestimable. It is hoped, that Americans will, therefore, chearfully contribute their assistance in transmitting to posterity the labours of their ancestors—founders of the Columbian nation.

 The work will certainly be advanced with expedition and promptitude. The following will show the support it has already acquired:

We, therefore, respectfully solicit, as the publication is necessary to be disseminated among public bodies, that Congress will, in their wisdom, render him such additional encouragement, to that which he has obtained from private individuals, as to enable him to proceed with the work, so that your Memorialists may be enabled to purchase copies of that record for themselves.

REBECCA MORTON, Admin'x.

Warwich, July 2. — [July 5] — 3awt6A.

The Swift-Sure,

A NEW LINE OF STAGES,
NOW RUNNING BETWEEN
PHILADELPHIA & NEW-YORK,
By the short and pleasant road of
Bustleton, Newtown, Scotch Plains, Springfield and Newark.

THE excellence of this road, the populousness of the country through which it passes, with sundry other advantages, which render it so far preferable to the Old Road through Bristol, Brunswick, &c. long ago suggested the propriety of its becoming the Grand Thorough Fare from Philadelphia to New York. During the present year, a minute survey of it has been taken, and its superiority over the Old Road, both in winter and summer, has been clearly ascertained.—There are good bridges over all the other waters but the Delaware, and here the crossing is performed with great safety and in less than half the time required at the Trenton Ferry. The road is several miles shorter than the old road, but this is amongst the least of its advantages, because daily experience proves to us, that dispatch as well as comfort in travelling principally depend on the goodness of the road and the levelness of the country, and, in these respects, the New Road is, beyond all comparison, the best. It presents none of those rocky hills, which render the Old Road so fatiguing between the Delaware and Newark. The soil, too, for the greater part, is such as to produce but little mud in winter, and very little dust in summer, which circumstance, added to the beauty of the country, and a considerable proportion of shade, must always render travelling in the latter season peculiarly agreeable.

The Swift Sure starts from PHILADELPHIA, at 6 o'clock every morning (Sundays excepted) from the GREEN TREE, opposite the Lutheran Church, North Fourth street. It goes through Frankford to Bustleton, where it stops to Breakfast; from Bustletown it goes through Newtown to Penny-town to dinner; from Penny-town through Hopewell, Millstone, Bound-brook, Quibbletown and Plainfield to Scotch Plains to lodge. The next morning it stops at Springfield to breakfast, from whence it goes through Newark and arrives at New-York at noon.

From NEW-YORK it starts at 3 o'clock in the afternoon (from Paulus Hook) and arrives at Philadelphia the next evening. For seats at New-York, application may be made to Edward Bardin, Old Coffee house, to A. Mathieu, corner of Nassau and John streets, to B. Many, no. 48, Courtlandt, corner of Greenwich street, and to Michael Little, at his hotel, no. 42, Broad street.

Fare for passengers, Five Dollars.
Way passengers 6 Cents per Mile.

Each passenger is allowed to take on 14lbs. of baggage carriage free; but all other baggage, taken on by a passenger, will be charged at 4 cents per pound weight.

With respect to packages sent on without passengers, the proprietors presume they have adopted a regulation, which, though unknown to other lines of stages, they think must meet with general approbation. They pledge themselves to make good every package on the following conditions. The person who delivers the package at the office shall see it entered in the stage-book, for which entry he shall pay 6 cents; he will then state the value of the package, and pay (exclusive of the carriage) one per cent. on the value, as insurance, and for which he will receive a receipt. Thus, for instance, if he estimates his package at one dollar, he will pay one cent. and if at one hundred dollars, he will pay one dollar insurance, and in like proportion for packages of any other value.

Very few persons it is presumed, will dislike this regulation; it will however, be optionable with every one to avail himself of this security or not. But the proprietors think it right to state very explicitly, that they will be responsible for the safe delivery of no package, which is not regularly entered, and for which an insurance receipt cannot be produced.

In the distribution of the route, the greatest care has bren taken to fix on such places and taverns as always afford a good accommodation and entertainment for the passengers at the most reasonable rates. The stages are well equipped furnished with fleet and steady horses, and committed to the care of intelligent sober and obliging drivers. The proprietors themselves live at the different towns and villages where the stages will stop, so that the conduct of the persons they employ is continually an object of their attention.—They take care also to see that the passengers are well provided for and politely treated at the taverns, and that no sort of chicanery or insolence is practised upon them; in short, they have spared neither pains nor expence to render the SWIFT-SURE the very best line of stages in America.

The line has now run nearly a month, during which time a great number of gentlemen have gone through, both from Philadelphia and New-York. Every passenger has found the road to surpass very far all that has been said of its excellence; and the Proprietors of the Swift Sure are extremely happy to hear the behaviou, of their drivers, and the treatment at Taverns spoken of with the highest satisfaction.

WILLIAM COBBETT

HAS JUST PUBLISHED (PRICE 1 DOL. 50 CENTS)

THE

By WILLIAM GIFFORD, ESQUIRE.

To which is prefixed,

A POETICAL EPISTLE TO THE AUTHOR
By an American Gentleman.

[In introducing this celebrated work to the Gentlemen and Ladies of America, I have endeavored to give it a dress proportioned to its distinguished merit, and to the taste of those for whose amusement and delight it is intended. No expence has been spared in the publication; and I flatter myself that the work does not yield, either in paper or print, to any one ever published in America——This edition has an advantage over some former ones, as it contains by way of notes, the minor productions of the author; and, it has an advantage over every other edition, in the Poetical Epistle, which is prefixed to it, and which must be extremely gratifying to every lover of literature in this country, as it is a proof that there are Americans who have the taste to admire, the justice to applaud, and the talents to rival the Geniuses of other nations.

☞ Some Copies have been sent on to Mr. Somerville, Maiden Lane, New York, also to Mr. Hill, Baltimore, and to Mr. Young, Charleston.

Copies will be sent to Boston and other places, as soon as occasions offer.]

WHEREAS,

AN attachment was lately issued out of the inferior court of common pleas of the county of Essex, in the state of New Jersey, directed to the sheriff of the said county, against the rights, credits, monies and effects, goods and chattles, lands and tenements of John Cleves Symmes at the suit of William Wells, in a plea of trespass on the case to his damage three thousand dollars;—

And whereas, the said sheriff did, at the term of June last past, return to the said court that he had attached the defendant by a certain bond given by Matthias Denman and Samuel Decker to the said defendant, to the amount of near two thousand dollars, and also by sixty land warrants;—

Now therefore, unless the said John Cleves Symmes shall appear, give special bail, and receive a declaration at the suit of the plaintiff, judgment will be entered against him, and his property hercin attached, will be sold agreeably to the statute in such case made and provided.
